

The-Pensions-Net-Work

"Leading Thought in Long Term Savings"

Thursday, 26th November

ZOOM MEETING

5:30 pm – 7:00 pm

Our "virtual" panel sessions really do seem to be going down well – the last one on 5th November on dragging pensions out of the digital stone age really opened up a terrific discussion. I have no doubt that our forthcoming session on "Pensions -green for go" will be equally stimulating - it could hardly be more topical. To discuss this very emotive subject we have assembled a stunning panel that will provide insights from a wide range of perspectives drawing on their experience which covers both institutional and retail sectors. It promises to be one of the very best panel discussions we have run and I'm sure will lead to much debate and differing views. So once again I urge you to sign up early as places are limited to ensure everyone gets an opportunity to participate. See you on the 26th.

Discussion Topic

"Pensions – Green for Go"

Panellists

Maria Nazarova-Doyle
Head of Pension Investments
Scottish Widows

Maria is responsible for defining the investment offering across Scottish Widow's pension business, covering both workplace and individual savings - and for incorporating ESG into the investment design. She has previously held senior DC investment roles at Mercer and JLT. She is a regular contributor to pension industry events and a professional awards judge. She also volunteers on the PMI Policy and Public Affairs Board and the CFA UK Pensions Expert Panel.

Tomas Carruthers
Entrepreneur and experienced CEO

Tomas probably needs no introduction. He is an experienced entrepreneur and Chief Executive with a proven history of innovation in the public markets through the start-up, growth and development of broking and media enterprises such as Interactive Investor which he founded and where he was CEO until 2012 He was a trustee of Nest from 2016-2019. He is now focused on building the market for social impact entrepreneurship and investment.

Tony Burdon
CEO
Make My Money Matter

Tony Burdon has worked in international development for most of his life and as a senior civil servant he was heavily involved with the mobilisation of private sector investment into developing countries, focussing on impact, tackling the climate emergency, and achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals. We learnt about MMMM from Caroline Hopper of Quietroom in a panel session in July and as MMMM's first CEO Tony is leading their "Pensions with Intention" campaign.

Jonathan Parker
Head of DC & Financial Wellbeing
Redington

Jonathan is a familiar face to TPNW regulars having attended several meetings in the past. He has more than 20 years of experience in pensions having held senior roles at Watson Wyatt, Zurich Financial Services, Dimensional Fund Advisers and Barclays Wealth before joining Redington where he leads their DC consulting business. He is an independent trustee of Aviva's master trust and appears regularly in the pensions trade press.
